

Abstract

The present invention relates to substrates whose surface
5 comprises a hyperbranched polymer which has urethane groups and/or urea groups, its amount being appropriate for modifying the properties on the surface. The invention further relates to a process for modifying the surface properties of substrates.

10

15

20

25

30

35

40

45